A self-portrait is a representation of an artist that is drawn, painted, photographed, or sculpted by that artist. Although self-portraits have been made since the earliest times, it is not until the Early Renaissance in the mid-15th century that artists can be frequently identified depicting themselves as either the main subject, or as important characters in their work.

The fifth issue continues many of the design elements of the fourth, but has a much cruder appearance. The portrait of Dr. Sun in this issue is a full bust and faces to the left; the entire background for the portrait is shaded. The issue, known as the Central Trust Print, was made necessary when Hong Kong fell to the Japanese in December 1941.

You can help children to settle better into the new class by creating displays of things that are familiar to them. Give each child a face template to create their own self-portrait. You can use this All About Me Display Pack to display the portraits in your classroom. This will give children ownership of the displays in the classroom and hopefully make them feel more comfortable.
