Throughout his 30+year career, the (anti-)fashion designer Rudi Gernreich worked hard to reconcile this suspicious fracture suggesting that a mere change of silhouette would never be enough, if the real aim was to change the social fabric itself. Gernreich understood clothing as a kind of social-technology that could (and had to) be retooled ...

The monokini, designed by Rudi Gernreich in 1964, consisting of only a brief, close-fitting bottom and two thin straps, was the first women's topless swimsuit. His revolutionary and controversial design included a bottom that "extended from the midriff to the upper thigh" and was "held up by shoestring laces that make a halter around the neck." Some credit Gernreich's design with initiating ...
